KINA SECURITIES LIMITED donates K2,000 to Salvos

Kina Securities Limited (KINA) has extended its support to the Salvation Army by donating K2000 to the annual Red Shield Appeal.

Present to receive the cheque were Red Shield Appeal Chairman Mr. Andrew Potter and Captain Maraga of the Salvation Army.

Group Marketing Manager, Beatrice Mahuru said at the presentation that KINA was happy to donate K2000 to support Salvation Army's services to the community which include health services, awareness campaigns, care and counseling and others like the emergency response to natural disasters.

"KINA has become a name synonymous with community organizations and community events. Our support to these charities such as the Salvation Army is a humble gesture of gratitude for their humanitarian efforts. It is our way of giving back to the community in appreciation for their support to us over the years.

This was the first time for the Salvation Army to reach out to KINA, and Chairman of the Red Shield Appeal, Andrew Potter said he was grateful for the prompt response and generous support of KINA.

Captain Maraga who has just returned from the Solomon Islands, where the salvation Army deliver more relief supplies to those affected in the Gizo region still recovering from the recent tsunami disaster. He said it was such generous efforts from corporate citizens such as KINA that positively touch the lives of those in dire need for humanitarian assistance.

Salvation Army at present has no representation in the Solomon Islands.
